Hatton Fields Property Owners Form Group

Following an organization meeting at the home of Charles H. Rayne last week, a meeting of the Hatton Fields Tract No. 1 Property Owners Association was held at the home of C. J. Ryland on Tuesday evening. Elected as officers for 1954 were C. J. Ryland, president; Edgar Bissantz, vice-president; Mrs. Rollo Payne, secretary-treasurer.

The 35 persons who attended expressed their desire to preserve the established residential character of the neighborhood, and approved a petition opposing the granting of a use permit for the erection of a group of buildings for church, Sunday-school and community facilities at the intersection of Highway 1 and County Road. The petition stressed the inadequacy of the site and traffic problems which would be created by a non-residential use of the property.

After obtaining additional signatures, the association will transmit the petition to the County Planning Commission.

AND THAT WAS TURKEY

Two of our Carmel girls are back from a visit to Turkey. An indigenous sea captain named them Madam Buckingham Palace and Puppy Darling, and treated them like queens. "A wonderful guy that Captain." Puppy Darling's account of the rollicking journey into the land of the Terrible Turk is on the feature page of this issue.

Public Hearing In Carmel On New Church Location

The Advisory Committee to the Monterey County Planning Commission has called a public hearing for Monday, 10:30 o'clock at Carmel City Hall on the application of the Carmel Presbyterian Church for permission to construct a church building in Hatton Fields, on Highway No. 1 at the intersection of the Old County Road.

The advisory committee is not empowered to act, but its recommendations will have considerable weight when the County Planning Commission holds its hearing on the application on February 23 in Salinas.

Hatton Fields residents have formed a property owners' association and are passing a petition opposing the church site. Letters received by the County Planning Commission have been forwarded to the Advisory Committee and will be read at Monday's hearing.

Another purpose of the hearing is to clarify some of the misapprehensions of the protesting property owners as to the provisions of the zoning ordinance as it applies to their area.

"One of the most common misapprehensions is that to permit a church there would mean rezoning and would open the way for motels, gas stations and other commercial buildings," Mayor Horace Lyon told the Pine Cone. "There is no rezoning involved in granting a permit to a church. The ordinance includes among permissive uses, not only churches, but nurseries and greenhouses, private stables, schools, libraries, and art galleries. However, a permit must be obtained from the county planning commission for these uses, and the commission has the power

School Board Hears Pupil Cost Report; Considers Calendar

A unit cost study presented by Superintendent Stuart Mitchell at the school board meeting Wednesday night showed that Carmel is not spending more on educating its pupils than communities of comparable size and taxable wealth. Carmel's cost per pupil is $392.75 for 1952-53. State average for the preceding year was $281.70; for schools of comparable enrollment and assessed valuation of district, $441.96. These figures were for 1951-52 since the 1952-53 figures are not yet available.

The board discussed the school calendar for 1954-55 debating whether to open school on the last Monday in August as last year, or to return to the first Monday in September opening as heretofore. Glen Leidig and J. O. Handley said they had received phone calls from parents objecting to the earlier date. Mrs. Howard Clark said she had heard some parents say they thought school should open even earlier, that two months' vacation is enough.

Board decided to get together with the boards on the Peninsula to find out what they intended to do about it.

Peninsula Forum Will Hold Initial Meeting Feb. 28

After discussion by an interested group of Monterey Peninsula residents at several preliminary meetings, a Peninsula Open Forum is about ready to be launched. The aims of the Open Forum are stated in the motto of Boston's alma mater of forum discussion, the Ford Hall Forum: "Let There Be Light."

With Dr. Louis G. Balsam as chairman, the following have participated in drafting the design of the Peninsula Open Forum: Mrs. Louise Almack, Dr. Remsen Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bowman, Mrs. Calvin Cope, Mr. James Glaser, Mr. Mel Hudon, Mr. and Mrs. Alastair Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Myrer, Miss Nora Power, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Read, Mr. Thomas Twohig, Mr. Harlan Watkins and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. H. Watson.

The opening meeting will be held on Sunday night, February 28, at 7:30 o'clock in the Student Union Hall at Monterey Peninsula College. It is intended to be an acquaintance meeting, where the interest of any other adherents of the Open Forum principle will be welcomed. A list of subjects to be discussed will be announced by the chairman at the acquaintance meeting, and members present will be invited to express their preferences by ballot and to suggest other Forum topics. There will be no admission charge, and the public is cordially invited to attend and take part in the discussion.

Opening Casanova Street On Council Agenda Wednesday

At an adjourned meeting of the city council, to be held next Wednesday, 7:45 o'clock, council members will hear objections from property owners to the proposed opening of Casanova Street at Fourth. One property owner, Sinclair McClellan, has presented the council with a check for the entire property owners' share in a co-operative project. Other property owners on the street object to losing the quiet of a dead-end street.

The council will also discuss the changes proposed by the planning commission in the off-street parking ordinance.

Time For Kids, Adults To Start Building Kites

Dream up a kite, make it and fly it on March 27 when the Annual Carmel Kite Festival comes along. There will be prizes for the prettiest, the oddest, the highest flying, the adult group and other categories. The founder of this colorful festival was the late Willis G. White, a retired clergyman. He organized the festival here in 1931, having previously formed one in Fresno. A friend of his had 50 kites made in Bali, Java and other places of the Orient. Many of these were works of art and made a beautiful display, forming an inspiration to many.

Editor's Column

This has been McCarthy week in Carmel, everybody talking about McCarthy and the Republican Bus. All this talk has given rise to no end of confusion, some of which we'd like to clear up.

It is not true—

That the reason the Republicans cancelled their plans to go en masse to the McCarthy rally in San Mateo in a bus was that somebody painted hammers and sickles all over it.

It is not true that a Democrat sneaked up to the meeting and when reprimanded by his party brethren, protested, "If somebody told you there was a two-headed giraffe tied up in front of the postoffice, you'd go look at him, wouldn't you?"

It is true that your editor, in somewhat the spirit of the Democrat above, and all agog to ride in the Republican Bus, was so mad when she heard that the Republicans preferred the comfort of their own cars and dinner at Rickey's to a vulgar box lunch and bus ride, that she fumed, "I've voted Democrat before and I can do it again."

Then we came across the rumor that the reason the Republican Bus had been cancelled was that the very top Republican smoothy in town didn't want the party faithful to expend all their enthusiasm in San Mateo Wednesday when their own Republican Dinner is scheduled in Monterey tonight. This slander is presumed to have originated with a Democrat, but it makes pretty good sense, so we haven't changed our registration yet. —Wilma Cook

Carmelites Invited To Governor's Youth Conference

Of the 2500 citizens invited to attend the Governor's Conference on Children and Youth in Sacramento, February 25-26, five are from Carmel. They are: Charles L. Dawson, Dr. Eric Berne, Dr. Friedy Heisler, Jack Cowan, and Frank D. Moller.

The conference will discuss delinquency and need for programs to aid youths with special needs and to strengthen family life. Those in attendance will be asked to report on projects in their localities that have helped solve these problems.

PADRE CAGERS SPLIT WITH GONZALES

Carmel High's basketball teams invaded the Gonzales crackerbox last Friday night and emerged with an even break in the league double-header with the Spartans. For years the Padres have had trouble getting untracked in the unfamiliar surroundings of the tiny Gonzales gym and have suffered several upsets at the hands of the aggressive valley lads. Last Friday, the Carmel lightweights felt the sting of the Spartan Babes by dropping a 50-40 decision to Coach Burns' accurate sharpshooters. However, the Carmel varsity enjoyed a fine night in the shooting department and snowed under the Spartans, 65 to 43.

The lightweight tussle was nip and tuck during the first three quarters but the host pulled away in the final heat to win handily. A new enrollee, Joe Barnes, proved a welcome addition to the Gonzales student body as he poured through 18 points to lead his new mates to victory. Mervyn Sutton found the range for 10 points to lead the little Padres in the score column as Mike Mosolf's 9-point effort took runner-up honors. Captain Gary Nielsen, Charles Dawson, John Zellhoefer, and Clyde Klaumann turned in fine defensive efforts in the losing cause. With this league loss to Gonzales, the Padrecitos drop from their lofty second place to the depths of the lower division.

Carmel's varsity started with a rush against the Spartan heavies and poured through the points in a steady stream throughout the game. Hitting for their best average of the season the red and gray shooters connected on 46% of their floor shot tries. Engineered by the steady playmaking of Captain George Hunter, the local preps moved through the porous Spartan zone defense for easy crip shots and hit from the outside with accurate one-handers. Scoring honors were evenly divided in the runaway battle as John Farrell, Don Leidig, George Hunter and George Wightman hit the double digits. Real good rebounding by Farrell, Wightman and Lyon gave the Padres control of both boards and put the pressure on the hosts. Guards Dick Jennings and Rene Requiro quarterbacked the defense and did a solid job of stopping the Gonzales quick-breaking attack. The win over Gonzales gives the Padres a 5-2 record for the league season and keeps them in second place, one game behind locked-up Gilroy and Pacific Grove.

SPORTSMEN PLAN ANNUAL CAPTAIN TRACY TOURNAMENT

Plans for the annual Captain Tracy Tournament will be discussed at the next meeting of the Carmel Associated Sportsmen, Inc., at 8:00 o'clock Thursday evening in the Carmel High School library.

The annual tournament, one of the top events sponsored by the club, is scheduled for sometime in March, the exact date to be announced shortly. Captain Tracy, former commandant of the U.S. Naval School in Monterey and a director of the Sportsmen's Club, presented a silver trophy to the club which had been given him in recognition of his service in China. The trophy is awarded annually to the club member excelling in all-around shooting ability. Present holder of the trophy is Roy Warner, president of the club.

Also to be discussed at Thursday's meeting is the forthcoming competition with the Carmel Pistol Club, to take place at the Sportsmen's range in Carmel Valley.

RECORD CROWD AT SWIM POOL OPENING

Hey kids! Come on in, the water's fine. According to Cap Johnson, veteran skipper of the Carmel High swimming pools, a greater number of Carmel swimmers answered the call and splashed in the village water hole last Sunday than at any time since the pool was built. Cloudless skies, a warm sun, no wind, radiant heat in the deck, and water at a pleasant 75 degrees proved the ideal ingredients for real enjoyable swimming. As the tropical February weather beamed down on the high school campus, expert weather forecaster Stuart Mitchell gave Cap the word to fill up the tanks and keep the kids in school instead of studying West Coast sea life at the beautiful Carmel beach. Not only did this wise decision produce results with the impetuous first-time hookey players: it also brought back the chronic ditchers who have been evading the truant officer.

If the weather permits, the high school pools will remain open on Saturdays and Sundays from 1-5. Participants must bring their own suit and towel as there are no facilities for renting swim equipment. Admission prices are 15¢ for students and 50¢ for adults.

THROUGH THE HOOP

Jack Giles and Ky Miyamoto with their Monday and Wednesday Youth Center games are giving lots of Carmel kids an opportunity to play organized games against visiting teams from Monterey and Pacific Grove. The YC lightweights are manned by the younger members while the varsity club lists recent high school graduates who are paid-up card holders. With Giles providing the locker-room chatter and Ky supplying the technical know-how of basketball, the YC squads should be a cinch to win more than they lose. Speaking of Miyamoto brings to light the sparkling 29-point effort by this amazing athlete in a Monterey City League game last week. Basketball fans who remember when a player who shot with one hand was a show-off and was immediately shown the way to the bench will appreciate the artistry of Ky's two-hand style of shooting. Whenever Ky gets a clear shot from inside 35 feet, the scorer starts tapping the two-point button on the Frost Roofer side of the scoreboard. . . . See where one of Carmel High School's greatest team basketball players, Bobby Updike, is noted for his unselfish team play with the MPC Lobos. Always an aggressive hustler on the court and a sticky burr on defense, the popular former Padre would rather pass for a teammate's scoring chance than cast off for himself. Rated no better than third or fourth string at the beginning of the season, scrappy Bob is listed in the starting lineup for all recent Lobo games. . . . Carmel High tried a pair of practice games during the past week, succumbing to Monterey High's speed to drop a pair to the Toreadores, and dividing a twin-bill with Tom Smith's Junipero Cardinals. The Padre lightweights were in the game all the way against the Monterey Babes, enjoying a two-point lead with a minute to play only to have an intercepted pass and a charity toss give the edge to Monterey. Monterey's varsity had unbeatable two-step speed over the slow Padres and ran over, around, and through the Carmel lads for a 63-50 win. Carmel's lightweight squad bowed to a fired-up Junipero team, 44 to 26, as the cover stayed on the little Padres basket. However, the Carmel varsity came from behind with a sensational second-half shooting spree to beat the good Serra varsity, 57 to 42. Coach Tom Smith has done a remarkable coaching job with the Junipero teams which are gaining great

Wish I'd Said That

You know Miss Perkins. Well, she's been driving her own car around our town for a little more than 30 years.

The other day she had a bit of trouble parking down on Main Street. Didn't quite make it the first try, so she pulled out to start over when a fellow waiting to pass started tootling his horn impatiently.

On the second try, she was still having a little difficulty and so this smart aleck hollered, "Lady, do you know how to drive?" "Yes, young man," Miss Perkins answered, "I do. But I don't have time to teach you now."

From where I sit, it's not always easy to have a good answer ready when you need it. But when somebody insists that I vote for his candidate, for instance, or choose tea instead of a temperate glass of beer with dinner, I know the answer. It's all a matter of personal preference . . . and none of us like "backseat driving" from anybody.

Patty Elston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Elston of Carmel and a student at Sunset School, happily displays the design which won her first place in the Monterey Peninsula junior high school division of the American Cancer Society's poster contest last week.

Patty and her school art instructor, William C. Buckman (above) were on hand Saturday at the Beach Club where the judging of the some 250 entries took place. Patty's first-place awards consisted of a framed original cartoon by Hank Ketcham, one of the contest judges, and a combination clock-radio. Her poster, along with the grand prize winner and the senior divisional winner, has been sent to San Francisco for judging in the statewide contest.

Stanley Plummer Heard In Farewell Performance At Dowdell Home

By EBEN WHITTLESEY

Farewell concerts are sad affairs for the audience, particularly when the artist is as able and well-liked as Stanley Plummer, the soldier violinist whose playing has given pleasure to many people in this area. Last Friday evening Plummer, accompanied by Horace Martinez, also a highly capable artist, presented an outstanding program for guests of the Rev. Canon Charles A. Dowdell and Mrs. Dowdell at their home in Carmel.

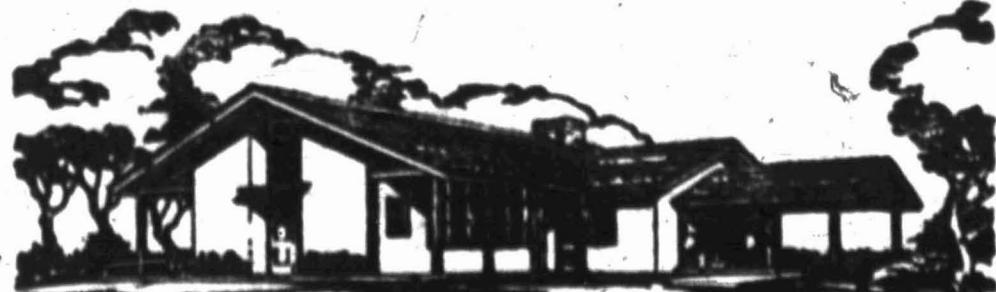

Opening with the warmly melodic Chaconne by the seventeenth century Italian, Tomaso Vitali, the program moved on through the powerful and difficult Brahms violin concerto in D major, to works by Respighi and Ravel.

Mr. Plummer has a fine command of his instrument, enough precision of execution to satisfy any listener, and a strong, affirmative style. He is not a musician to whom one looks for the brittle brilliance of the virtuoso; rather his work is notable for a satisfying sincerity and a sureness of touch not always to be found in combination with a singing tone. The typically difficult but stimulating tapestry of Brahms' first movement was worked out by both pianist and violinist in a most satisfying manner. A feeling of intensity was skillfully maintained without too much speed. An eloquent lyric style was developed in the second movement, but excessive sweetness was avoided. The last movement burst out with a fine flare of triumph. Mr. Martinez achieved good dramatic effect without pounding.

After an intermission we heard the Respighi Sonata in D minor. As was true throughout the evening the piano part was more than an accompaniment. The work gave Mr. Plummer ample opportunity to demonstrate the warmth of his singing tones. I prefer to hear Italian music played by non-Italian artists, because performers of the Gallic persuasion are apt to get too much emotion for my taste. These two musicians hit a fine balance.

Ravel's exciting Tzigane wound up the concert in a frenzy of fine execution and stirring modern harmonies. The complicated and changing rhythms were very well handled, and the important piano part well integrated. I don't recall hearing a more stirring performance of this work. Mr. Plummer's military service takes him next to Stuttgart, where he should be a highly effective cultural ambassador before the European audience.

Ernie Bramblett Found Guilty Of Falsifying Payroll

Ernest K. Bramblett, Republican Congressman from this district, was found guilty by a federal jury Tuesday of falsifying his congressional office payroll.

His attorney Edward Williams immediately asked the court to set aside the verdict, maintaining that the law under which Bramblett was indicted does not apply to members of congress. Judge Bastian asked Williams to put the motion in writing.

During the trial, Judge Bastian threw out eleven of the eighteen charges against Bramblett. The seven remaining were for each of the seven months when Mrs. Margaret M. Swanson's name appeared on the government payroll as clerical help in Bramblett's office.

Mrs. Swanson testified that she had done no work during that period and her husband said that he had "kicked back" the pay to Bramblett.

Bramblett is free on $2,500 bail.

HAMMOND ORGAN

Why,

after thorough investigation,
do more churches choose the Hammond Organ
than any other comparable instrument?

Yes — it's true! Over 35,000 churches of all denominations have, most of them after thorough investigation, selected the Hammond Organ to provide all music for their services. From tiny chapels to tremendous cathedrals, the Hammond Organ is the outstanding choice.

Here are some of the reasons for such leadership:

- No installation cost; requires no structural changes
- Hundreds of rich church organ tones
- Music of cathedral quality in even the smallest church
- No tuning expense—can go out of tune
- Easy for professional or amateur to play
- Lowest priced complete church organ made

Whittier Wellman Believed Victim Of Highlands Fire

Though positive identification has not yet been made, circumstantial evidence indicates that the body found burned beyond recognition after Sunday's fire in Carmel Highlands is that of Whittier Will Wellman, former Carmel newspaperman.

County Coroner Elmer Machado says that while the victim is presumed to be Wellman, it may be impossible to make a final identification.

The fire, which started shortly before midnight Sunday, completely destroyed the garage apartment rented by Wellman on the property belonging to Miss Ann Cattell, whose own home was also damaged in the blaze. The body was not discovered until Monday morning, long after the fire had been extinguished.

Wellman, who had lived on the Peninsula for nearly 15 years, was born October 14, 1896 in Alameda, educated in the Bay Area and subsequently entered Stanford University. He enlisted in the Army during World War I, serving two years overseas. After the war he worked in the family firm of Wellman-Peck Co. in San Francisco.

With his move to Carmel in the late 30's Wellman turned his talents to free-lance writing and a number of his articles and stories have been published in national magazines. Until two years ago, he was advertising manager for the Pine Cone.

Modest and kindly, the gentle little "Whit" was regarded affectionately by his associates, and had the deep loyalty of his chosen friends. Sympathetic inquiries from the townspeople have been pouring into the Pine Cone during the past week, since his patient rounds of the town in connection with his advertising work had made him a familiar figure.

He is survived by a brother,

Pianist Egon Petri will appear as soloist with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Clifford Anderson, on Tuesday evening, February 23, at 8:30 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium. Tickets for the concert are on sale at the Graham Music Company.

Kingsley Wellman of Woodside, and a sister, Mrs. Warren Campbell of Inglewood. He was a nephew of the late Mrs. George Beardsley of Carmel.

Private funeral services were held Tuesday, with the Paul Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

TITAN

Did you ever wonder what it is like up in Titan? If you would like to know, don't stop reading, because I was up in Titan just last week. Now, Titan is one of the moons going around Saturn. Up in Titan there're snakes as long as a city block and as short as your pencil. There are men that have teeth two feet long. They only have eight fingers and twelve toes.

It's almost like Carmel but it's hot up there and only once a year it lights up. So you see, a night lasts 364 days and a day only 24 hours.

I think now, you should get a pretty good idea of what it is like up in Titan. —Ronny Leidig

LEAVES

Leaves are born in the Spring, When all flowers begin to bloom and sing. In the Summer they are bright and gay, As in the healthy sunshine they play. In the Fall they turn dusty gray and brown, Then swirl around to the ground. In the Winter when all trees are cold and bare, Leaves die on the ground, having given in life their share. —Marilyn Reid

COAL BLACK AND THE SEVEN GIANTS

Once upon a time there was a woman named Coal Black who was the ugliest woman alive.

There was a witch in the land who thought she was the ugliest woman alive, and was very proud of it. Every, four and three-quarter-minutes, she would look in her magic door knob and ask it who was the ugliest woman alive. Before, it always faithfully said that she was. But this time it answered, "Coal Black." This made the witch very mad, as she wanted to be the ugliest woman alive.

Meanwhile, when Coal Black heard that the witch had found out about her, she was very frightened and had to run away into the desert. As Coal Black was walking through the desert, she stumbled on a cactus stump and fell into a big hole. When she got up, she was in a big mansion. She couldn't stand it being so clean, so she immediately began messing it up.

Later she heard the ground rumbling, and looked up to see

Patoc-Tatar In Dance Program At Sunset Tomorrow

Kato Patoc and George Tatar, former solo dancers of the Royal Hungarian Opera House, will make their only West Coast appearance tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock at Sunset Auditorium.

Their program, comprising both classical and modern dance, will include Tschaikovsky's Oriental Dance, Saint-Saens' Swan, a series of Hungarian ballets, and the brilliant Sabre Dance, made famous by Nijinsky. Many of the dances have been choreographed by Mr. Tatar and never before performed in this country.

Assisting guest artist on the program will be Carmel tenor James Gordon. Miss Angie Machado will be the accompanist. The program is presented by Eva La Dochy, and tickets are obtainable at the La Dochy Dance Studio in Monterey, Graham Music Co., Abinante's, or the Sunset box office prior to the program.

who it was. The first one to come through the hole was a giant about twelve feet high; the second one was about fourteen feet high; and each one following was a little bigger. Finally there were seven of them. For some odd reason they took a liking to her.

Just about this same time, the witch was stirring some brew. When she drank it, a dreadful thing happened. The witch became beautiful.

Then the witch went out to search for Coal Black with a poisoned pear. Finally she discovered the hole and went in. She saw Coal Black and Sneezy talking. She walked up to Coal Black and said, "How would you like a sour pear?"

Coal Black said that she would love it, but just as she was going to take a big bite, Sneezy sneezed and blew the pear right into the witch's mouth.

As you probably know, Coal Black lived with the giants happily ever after. —Joe Mason

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED

I breathed a sigh of relief. Yes, at last after two strenuous yards I had reached the base of Jane. I felt as though I had crossed a continent. Now to begin the long tedious climb to the top. I started up one curvy leg and stepped out on a swishy skirt. At last I was on my way. I continued up the skirt when an arm brushed me aside. What cruelty! Finally I reached the neck. Above me hung a precipice which continuously moved. I decided to go by way of the ear, being not so dangerous as the chin. When I reached the lips, which were constantly in motion, I was worried. Should I go by way of the mouth and risk those crushing teeth or by way of the dripping nose. I decided to go by way of the tongue for no good reason. Somehow, I found my way to the brain where I began work.

After I finished I was very sleepy but I had to stick by the controls. Soon Jane was leaping about wildly, wiggling her arms and legs. I, the Jitterbug, could now rest in peace forevermore. —Patty Elston

Sam Colburn Shows Development In Perception As Well As Technique In One Man Exhibition At Gallery

By RICHARD LOFTON

Sam Colburn is currently having a one-man show in the alcove room at the Carmel Art Association Galleries on Dolores Street in Carmel. This show consists of some dozen water colors and one oil.

It seems to the writer that this exhibition indicates a very considerable advance on Colburn's part, in the direction of greater clarity of color, of structural integration, and, most important, of intenser seeing. In his work one has always sensed a fine love of the land, the light that falls on it, and the relation of the buildings to it. Here one also senses a growing love of the shapes of the sea.

In some of these paintings, like the one called Carmel Valley, Colburn has achieved something of a timeless quality by the accurate relating of counter movement, so that the total effect is one of poise and solidity. There are some—and perhaps the still life is an example of this—where the simple pleasure of spreading fluid washes is given fuller sway. This happens not uncommonly with those who work much in water color. Such paintings can give real pleasure from the look and shapes of the color itself, and Colburn's do this.

In the one oil, Mountain, much play has been made of textural variations, resulting in an impasto quality which is quite interesting in relation to the water colors. One would like to see Colburn make more use of this medium.

The exhibition as a whole is a stimulating one and well worth a trip to the gallery. It will remain on view through February 14.

for lovelier rooms... better lighting choose your lamps as decorators do

..in groupings

Todays decorators and lighting experts agree... your rooms are lovelier, and more livable, when you choose your lamps by the roomful! Most living rooms need at least five portable lamps to eliminate uncomfortable contrasts between light and dark areas, and to make reading, sewing and other close work easier-on-the-eyes. Budget plans are now available in most stores, to help you buy lamps in groupings. And with low P. G. and E. rates, you can easily afford all the light you need. Why not stop in at your lamp dealer's today... and see how the proper grouping of lamps can light any room in your home for better living.

And That Was Turkey

By KAREN WILLIAMS

Since my return from Turkey, about two weeks ago, I have been asked all sorts of questions, ranging from, "why did you come back so soon?" to "Oh, have you been away?" But the question asked most frequently is, "Why on earth did you go to Turkey—of all places?" I shall clarify the point. Charis' husband, Brad Buckminster, was stationed with the Air Force in Trabzon. Charis wanted to be with Brad for Christmas, but didn't want to make the long trip alone. That, plus the idea of being the only American woman in the midst of 31 Air Force men made her rather hesitant. (Wouldn't bother me a bit.) So she asked me to go with her, and I went. I love to travel, and as for 31 Air Force men. . . .

We flew to New York, and the next day boarded the Mauretania, bound for England. The trip was very comfortable, a little rough at times, but as I gather from the accounts of other people's trips, not extraordinary in any way. We were invited to have cocktails with the wardroom officers, and after dressing to the teeth, we were a little surprised to find that we were the only ones invited. But perhaps this isn't extraordinary either. We sailed for seven days, and when we got to London, we spent two days seeing everything good tourists should see. The only trouble we ran into in London occurred whenever we had to give or leave tips. At meals we would dump out all our coins, decide which one looked the prettiest, and furtively hide it under a plate, and quickly depart, never knowing whether we had left a fortune or a pittance. (For this reason we never ate at the same place twice.)

From London we flew to Zurich, and having met a sweet old Swiss gentleman on the plane, we were given a personally conducted tour of that beautiful city. Late that evening we took off again, for Istanbul, via Athens. We arrived early the next morning, and having met a sweet old Turkish gentleman, we were escorted to and established at our hotel, the Pera Palace, which has known better days, but evidently forgot them. We had expected to leave for Trabzon the next day, but found that we had missed the last boat, and would have to stay over four days. The weather was gray, rainy and cold, but our Turkish friend, who spoke fine English, had a warm heart and it was he who introduced us to our first Turkish meal. The food is delicious; each item is served on a separate plate, so that when you sit down you find a stack of some five dishes placed in front of you, and as you polish off each one, that plate is whisked away by the waiter, and thus the stack diminishes. I imagine the dishwashers aren't very happy about this arrangement. Later, at the American Consul we met Leo, who is Turkey's answer to Victor Mature, with a gold tooth. Leo took us on a tour. Istanbul is built up and down hills. Most of the streets are narrow and curvy, and the Istanbulian taxi-drivers seem to revel in going around corners as fast as possible and scaring the daylights out of both passengers and pedestrians.

We went to the Treasury, which originally housed the Sultan's harem, and is now a museum containing a wealth of beautiful objects from Turkey's past. We also saw the Blue Mosque, and I doubt whether we'll ever see a more awe-inspiring sight—vast, silent and ancient. When our four days were over we went down to the dock to board the Ordu to sail down the Black Sea on the last lap of our journey. The Ordu is modern and luxurious, but the best thing about it is the Captain, a Turk with a brilliant and bawdy command of the English language. He treated us like queens; had our stateroom changed for one with a private (fresh-water) shower, had fresh fruit sent to our room, had us at his table for all meals, except breakfast, which was served to us in bed. (He even gave us nick-

TOMORROW

*There will be time
When I am more of years:
Time for a sunrise and a sunset spread.
To lift a rose that flaunts the window ledge
And wonder at the whisper of the wind
That blows the pine.*

*There will be time:
For laughter,
And the song of sparrow in the apple tree;
For walking where the lake
Is length of light
When darkness folds across the day.*

*There will be time . . .
Someday, someday,
But never now, for clamored calls knife through
And rip the dreams to shreds of nothingness
To leave me faced with all the calls
Of now . . . now . . . now . . .*

—MARY GUSTAFSON.

PROGRESS

*Progress is linked to thought of death—
And a wistful catching of the breath,
When I see a road that muddied my feet
Changing into a nice clean street.
How sad to see a good old road
That rutted many an honest load
Being tarred, to a tractor's noisy song,
For motorists to whizz along,
And great trees leaning from above
Chopped down by civic growth and shove;
Neighboring elbows sliced off sheer
As if to say, "Don't tarry here!"—
Gutters dried up where frogs and boys
Were wont to gather with puddly noise,
Candytuft, thistle and fragrant herbs
Entombed beneath cold granite curbs,
And the moon's lamp, trimmed with mellow care,
Usurped by an arc light's blinding glare.*

—LORI PETRI.

ROYAL HEART

*The castle-heart that owns a gate
Portcullis-tight to any fate,
Secures its kingdom-wealth within
Against all peace-besieging din,
And sets a Ruler on its throne
With crown of thorns and precious stone
To roll the centuries away
And resurrect one deathless day—
Rich heart ascending to its own.*

—OTHELIA LILLY.

THE WIND

World traveler,
Laments his loneliness,
Rootless Orestes who can find

names; Charis was Madam Buckingham Palace, and I was Puppy Darling, and don't ask me why.) He took us up on the bridge whenever we put into a port, and we became familiar with the somber and forbidding coastline of Turkey. (Coming back, in the sunshine, it looked very beautiful.) We arrived in Trabzon on the evening of the third day, after traveling some 10,000 miles and ending up a cool 100 from the Russian border. (Later in our stay Charis and Brad took a trip to the end of the line and actually viewed the country.) We were met by Brad and a friend. The landing area was a sea of ankle-deep mud, so they picked us up and carried us through the throng of completely dumbfounded, staring natives. For the first four days we had rooms at the Sabah Hotel; very clean, very cold, and very dim. The "necessary convenience", it can't be called a bathroom, was down the hall. (A Turkish bathroom, although by far the most practical, will have to be described in private.)

Whenever we went into the street, we collected crowds, and if we stopped for even a minute, we were immediately surrounded. Literally, they had never seen anything like Charis and me. In the first place, according to their standards, we ran around almost naked. Almost ninety percent of the women still wear veils, shawls, and scarves and are so covered that only their eyes show. (Charis and I didn't ever have a hat between us.) Besides which, we talked, ate and walked with the men, which was almost unheard of.

From the Sabah Hotel we moved into a large house on top of a hill overlooking the Black Sea and the roof tops of Trabzon. The house was divided into three apartments, rented by one group of Air Force men. There were five of us who rented one of these apartments: Charis and Brad, Pat and Dick, and myself. We had three large bedrooms, one for Pat and Dick, one for Brad and Charis, and one for me. Plus these there were two bathrooms, a large kitchen, a big living room, a dog, a full-time maid (age 15), a patio, and a terraced grove of tangerine trees. Eight of the men lived next door, two more downstairs, and the rest scattered in various apartments in other parts of town.

There was never any regularity or routine to our life. The men worked on a day and night eight-hour shift. (We never did learn what they were doing. All very secret.) This shift business meant that there were people coming and going, eating and sleeping and being awake at all odd hours. Charis and Brad, being not only ambitious, but also virtuous, gave a series of lessons in English to two dark men, in return for which they were invited to have dinner with their families on several occasions. But for the most part, we had to create our own diversions.

The country-side was beautiful for sightseeing and abounded in ancient ruins and fascinating history. We were never bored. Even a mere trip down town was an adventure, especially when we went alone.

In the evenings we carried on long, highly intellectual conversations, or played interminable gin rummy games, or if we got tired of improving our minds, we would go to the Yesil Yurt Hotel for dinner. The Yesil Yurt is Trabzon's biggest and best, and there is a beautiful fight there every Saturday night. Usually after we had paid our check, the little waiter would come running up to us and inform us that the fight was about to start, and it would be wise to get the heck out. So we got. All the men carried knives, and they were used rather indiscriminately in the fighting. Let me say here and now that the Turkish people were just as friendly to us as possible. They just didn't like each other very well, I guess. At the Yesil Yurt, Charis and I were even more of a novelty. A profound silence fell over the men (we never did see another woman there) every time we entered and (Continued on Page Nine)

Junkerts Honeymooning Here

Alternating their honeymoon trip between Highlands Inn and Yosemite are Mr. and Mrs. William Ernest Junkert, Jr. (Joy Westcott), who were married in a candlelight service last Saturday at the Community Methodist Church in Soledad.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Westcott, Joy went through Carmel High School, later receiving her B.A. from the University of California and taking graduate study at Northwestern University Medical School. Her family makes their home in Soledad.

Joy's maid of honor at her wedding was her sister, Patricia, likewise a Carmel High graduate and now a student at U.C. Her bridesmaid was a cousin, Beverly Westcott of San Jose, while the groom's cousin, Jennifer Kelso of Pittsburg, served as junior bridesmaid and candle-lighter.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Junkert, Sr., of Riverside, was attended by Eugene Boring of San Francisco as best man. The senior Junkerts flew up from their Southern California home to be present at the wedding.

The couple's new home will be 1350 Fourth Avenue in San Francisco. The bride will continue her work on the physical therapist staff of Children's Hospital, while the groom returns to medical school; he will receive his M.D. in June of next year.

Crafts Guild Meeting Tonight

There will be a general meeting of all sections of the Carmel Crafts Guild this evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Carmel Art Gallery. Announcements of section meetings for the remainder of the month will be made at the meeting.

For its February display in the Carmel Library, the Guild is showing samples of the custom leather work of Marion Miller. A Pennsylvanian by birth, Miss Miller majored in jewelry making and sculpture at Carnegie Tech. A collateral interest in leather work eventually claimed her full-time attention and led to the establishment of her own custom leather shop in San Francisco. Two years ago Miss Miller moved to the Peninsula and set up her Carmel studio and has since won first prizes for leatherwork at both the Monterey and Los Angeles County fairs.

Her library display, which will continue through March 5, includes such diversified examples of her craft as a purse of brown ostrich, a jewel box and two beguiling animals: a penguin and a rabbit.

Local D.A.R. Visit Salinas

The Commodore Sloat Chapter, D.A.R., will be the guests of the Santa Lucia Chapter in Salinas at a joint district meeting and patriotic tea, honoring the state regent and other state officers, to be held at 2:00 o'clock Thursday at Salinas Knights of Pythias Hall. Members planning to attend and desiring transportation are asked to call Mrs. Mace Pewtherer, evenings, at 2-0449, or Mrs. Frank LaCauza, daytimes, at 5-4661, before Tuesday.

Jim Naftzger Weds Concord Girl

Howard James Naftzger, son of Mrs. Frederick E. Naftzger and the late Mr. Naftzger of Carmel, was married Sunday morning to the former Barbara Lusebrink of Concord. The groom's mother was among the family members and close friends of the young couple who attended the simple wedding ceremony, held in the chapel of the Methodist Church in Lafayette.

The bride, who will graduate this June from San Francisco State College, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Lusebrink of Concord. The benedict attended U.C.L.A. and was graduated from the University of California in Berkeley in 1950, and recently returned from nearly two years work in Japan in his field of civil engineering.

The couple are making their home in San Francisco, where the groom is presently in business.

Dead Deer Beans Blythe

Sam Blythe of Carmel, a sophomore journalism student at Washington State College, recently received an injury of unusual, if not unique nature.

It seems that Sam, being a good student, was busily studying for finals, when four of his cronies from down the hall decided to pay him a visit. The last one in Sam's room banged the door with such force that a mounted deer head (brought by Sam from Carmel as a decoration for his room) was shaken from the wall and toppled on Sam's unprotected pate.

Doctors at the student health service, accustomed to hearing just about anything in the line of bizarre and sudden injuries and illness during finals week, took a dim view of Sam's explanation of his wound (which was, fortunately, not too serious)—but Sam produced his four witnesses, and his case went officially into the records as caused by a quite dead deer.

Yosemite Bound

Among the horde of Carmelites bound for Yosemite this weekend will be Mrs. Viola Weisiger and her daughter Mary, and Mrs. A. M. Tetley and her bairns Richard and Janie, who'll be leaving bright and early tomorrow morning. The moms aren't planning any fancy skiing, but like everyone else going on the trip are hoping for a nice soft covering of powder snow to pad the ice which the recent warm spell has glazed over the pack.

Already encamped in Yosemite are several score kids from the high school, who left yesterday morning for their annual four-day ski trip. Many of the parents have also gone up, and will be joined by other groups leaving today and tomorrow — among them a good number of the Pine Cone's working force. Happy skiing to all!

Mr. Winter in the Islands

Charles L. Winter, proprietor of the Village Jeweler, has temporarily put his business into the hands of his wife and departed on a three weeks' vacation in the Hawaiian Islands.

Winter sailed Sunday for Honolulu, and by now has joined his daughter, Gayle (Mrs. Edward Alex O'Neill) at her home on the Kona Coast of Hawaii. The itinerary they've planned includes deer hunting on the island of Molokai, deep sea fishing off the coast (Mr. Winter will settle for nothing less than a 1500-pound marlin) and a specially-arranged wild pig and goat hunt on the vast confines of the Parker Ranch on Hawaii, the largest ranch-holding in the world.

The vacation will end around the first of next month, until which time customers with malfunctioning timepieces will have to hold off for repairs, according to Mrs. Winter. She adds that she doesn't at all begrudge her husband his bachelor holiday—she enjoyed a solo visit with their daughter two years ago, while Mr. Winter bided his time at home.

Eighth Grade Goes to a Party

The eighth grade students at Sunset School — three rooms of them, some 70 strong — were the guests of Marilyn Reid and Joan Engle when the two girls celebrated their 13th birthdays recently with a dance party at Holman's Guest Ranch in Carmel Valley.

Each eighth-grader received a beautiful red-and-gray silk-screened party invitation, handmade by Joan's mother, Mrs. Adrienne Engle, and all but a very few RSVP'd in the affirmative. Marilyn and Joan themselves handled the multitudinous arrangements for their threescore-plus guests, including refreshments, decorations, games and entertainment. The results of their efforts, by all accounts, were a complete success: the guests danced by firelight, did stunts, played games, and generally had a fine time. And the two hostesses received more gifts than they could carry.

An equally fine time was had by the adult members of the party, who were Mrs. Engle, Marilyn's parents Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Reid, and invited chaperones Mr. and Mrs. Mark Raggett and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Elsen.

Entertains for Republicans

Mrs. Edison Holt will entertain Assistant Defense Secretary Charles Williams and local and county Republican leaders with a cocktail party this evening at her Carmel Valley home, preceding the Lincoln's Day Dinner at Hotel San Carlos.

Mrs. Sisson's Norway Cousin

Mrs. Henrik Meyer of Bergen, Norway, recently completed a week's visit here with her cousin, Mrs. E. O. Sisson—reciprocating a visit paid her and her husband last year by Mrs. Sisson during the trip to her home country.

Mrs. Meyer, who arrived here last Tuesday, reached Carmel by way of Norway, London and the Panama Canal. Her extended tour will continue later this month when she leaves for Seattle and Vancouver, B.C. Before returning to Norway, she plans another visit to Carmel, sometime in June.

The balmy weather, which made sightseeing more than usually pleasant, helped condition her guest's reaction to Carmel, which was, according to Mrs. Sisson, wholly enthusiastic. The pair traveled down the coast, explored the beach, and generally visited all the spots of scenic and historical interest on the Peninsula, to their mutual enjoyment.

This Wednesday Mrs. Meyer left for Los Angeles to meet her husband, captain of the Intercean Steamship Co. vessel Ravanger.

Crileys Visit in Highlands

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Criley arrive here tomorrow for a weekend visit in the Highlands with his mother, Mrs. T. M. Criley, and sister Mrs. Russell Williams. Ted went through school on the Peninsula, and like most of the Criley-Russell clan graduated from Stanford; he and his wife, Marjorie, make their home in Claremont, where his architectural practice is located.

Sarah Gill Gates and Elizabeth Wolfe, above, will be seen in tonight's performance of Christopher Fry's The Boy with a Cart at 8:15 o'clock at the Church of the Wayfarer.

Featured in the title role is Bobby Driscoll, Academy-Award winning boy actor of the movies, assisted by Minna Caldwell, Sarah Gill Gates, Elizabeth Wolfe, Dick Treter, Hal Bokar, George Carle and James Wheaton.

The play, produced by the Bishop's Company of Los Angeles, is sponsored locally by the Church of the Wayfarer and a group of patrons. Patron tickets are available at the church office or at the Browse Around Music Shop.

And That Was Turkey

they spilled their soup staring at us.

When we first arrived there was rain almost every afternoon, but as the season got later, it turned into snow. The holidays neared, and to coin a phrase, Turkey had us for Thanksgiving. Shortly before Christmas we received an invitation from the Captain of the Ordu to come aboard for dinner, as he had to be in port for a few hours to unload cargo. Charis,

Brad, Pat and I went down to the dock, and got into the little chug-boat to go out to the breakwater where the Ordu was anchored. Then, for some reason, we had to wait out in the harbor for an hour in the little boat. There were about a dozen Turks in the boat with us, and they were singing and talking among themselves. We decided to join in the entertainment, so Charis and I recited poetry to them. Poe was the most appropriate, and when we were through, although they hadn't understood a word, they seemed pleased and applauded. Finally they took us to the Ordu, where we ate a wonderful dinner, and then Charis and I went to the stateroom reserved for the prime minister, and had the luxury of turning on the shower and having hot water come out. At the house

On the fourth of January we boarded the Ordu again, and said goodby to Trabzon. Brad accompanied us as far as Istanbul, although he hadn't planned to. He was going to go as far as Samsun, about a third of the way, but the Captain told us that it was too stormy to land there, and that he would have to go all the way. Only later did he tell us that it would we had to heat our water over the stove.

About a week before Christmas, Pat and I went down town and got two geese for our Christmas dinner. As all fowl is bought on the hoof, we tucked the honking, snapping geese under each arm, and followed by a procession of amazed Turks, wended our way home, amid shouts of encouragement. (We hoped it was encouragement. Could have been anything as far as we knew.) On Christmas Day Charis stuffed the geese and I baked some cakes, and that evening we sat down to a real holiday feast. Afterwards the rest of the men came in and we sang carols.

One day Charis and I decided that we really should take a Turkish bath, since we had access to the real McCoy. So equipped with our scant knowledge of the language, we ventured forth to find one. I guess we didn't make ourselves clear, for after several phone calls made by the manager of the local coffee house, we were conducted along the narrow alleys and streets, in and out, and finally ended up in front of a rather unlikely looking establishment, where the owner proceeded to try to sell us a bathtub. We tried to tell him that that wasn't exactly what we had in mind, so he called the British Consul, and after some hasty translations, we were lead to the real thing at last, and were feeling very proud of ourselves; but to no avail. They had run out of hot water.

have been possible to land there, but that seeing Charis look so sad at the thought of saying goodby to Brad, he decided that they should be together as long as possible. A wonderful guy, that Captain. We stayed one night in Istanbul, and the next day flew to Athens. We saw the Acropolis and the city from the air, and it was just as impressive as we had expected. Then on to Geneva, Charis and I fell in love with Switzerland, so clean, so cold, and so festive. Then back to London, where we stayed four days, and, believe it or not, we at last had a Turkish bath. In London, of all places! We came back to New York on the Britannic, and this trip was much more exciting than the first. The ship was crowded with people of our age, and it was very gay. We docked at Bermuda, and saw the green sea and the pink houses. Then on to New York where we spent one night, thence to San Francisco by plane and to Monterey by bus. Charis, although she loved the trip as much as I, was very glad to get home to her little daughter, and was more or less ready to settle back into a normal existence. But I am very sorry it's over, and if anyone should ask me, I would be ready to go again at the drop of a féz.

New Seminar Starts February 23 On Man And The State

Registration opened Monday for The Carmel Seminar, Spring 1954. The subject of the twelve-session course will be Man and the State, and the first meeting will be February 23 at the home of the seminar leader, Milton Mayer, on the west side of Lincoln between Thirteenth and Santa Lucia, in Carmel.

Short reading assignments will be given the participants in preparation for the two-hour discussion sessions. The readings will include selections from the New Testament, Sophocles, Plato, Milton, Locke, Rousseau, Thoreau, Gandhi, Lincoln, Lenin, Mussolini, Shaw, and Orwell.

The seminar will meet Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30. Meetings will be held weekly except for the period from mid-April to mid-May, when the seminar will be in recess. The last meeting will be in mid-June.

There are no academic or other qualifications for admission, but membership is restricted to the first 25 registrants.

Valentine Birthday for Diane

Her tenth birthday was celebrated recently by Diane Shields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Shields, with an afternoon party at her Hatton Fields home. A Valentine motif was used for the decorations, favors and prizes which Diane and her mother provided for the 15 guests, among whom were all the girls from Diane's fifth grade room at Sunset School.

Helping Diane celebrate were Karen Swanson, Cathy Mapstead, Janice Way, Penny Nielsen, Shirley Glod, Joy Fehring, Linda McHarry, Julie and Sally Campbell, Mary Handley, Mary Martin, Carol Wise, Mary Jane Leutzinger and Lois Patnode.

Pfc. Downey Takes His Ease

Army Pfc. Phillip W. Downey, son of James J. Downey of Perry Newberry and Fourth streets, recently spent a week's rest and relaxation from Korean duty on leave in Tokyo, "the Paris of the Pacific". A former student at St. Martin's College, Downey entered the army in February 1952 and completed basic training at Ft. Riley, Kansas. He is normally stationed with the 8240th Army Unit in Korea.

Local State Bar Appointees

Several local attorneys are listed among the new appointees to State Bar committees for the current administrative year.

Charles P. McHarry of Carmel was named chairman of the local administrative committee for Monterey County; also on the committee are Kalmen Y. Sapiro of Monterey and Edson G. Thomas of Salinas. McHarry was also chosen to be State Bar liaison officer to act in unlawful practice of the law matters in and for Monterey County. Thomson J. Hudson of Carmel has been appointed to the northern section of the state committee dealing with unlawful practice of the law.

Golden Wedding for Paul Vials

Five decades of married life were celebrated Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Vial with a buffet and cocktail party for their family and friends here.

The Vials were married 50 years ago in San Francisco, made the grand tour of the continent, and since that time have lived alternately at their winter retreat in Carmel and their home on the Columbia River near Portland, St. Cloud Ranch — named after the spot outside of Paris where they spent their honeymoon.

Helping the senior Vials with their anniversary celebration were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Vial, who had toyed with the idea of presenting them with a gift appropriate to the occasion — such as a solid gold Cadillac, a brace of yachts, a gold fireplace or perhaps even a gold toothpick. Also invited were Mr. and Mrs. F. Robert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Webster Street, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hopper, Mrs. Margaret Hensel, Mrs. Katherine O'Neill, Sam Colburn and Philip Smith. The Vial's daughter, Mrs. Lenore Mackenzie of La Jolla, was unable to be present for the party.

Root Receives Insurance Award

Chester W. Root of Carmel will be among the honorees at a dinner to be held this evening at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco. He is a member of the Forrest J. Curry Agency of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, which will receive the President's Award for outstanding achievement during 1953.

Malcolm Adam, president, will come from the company's home office in Philadelphia to award the group permanent possession of the plaque as the first agency to have earned the award three times. The Curry Agency previously won the president's award in 1949 and again in 1951.

Carmelites Make MPC Honor Roll
Jane F. Meiners of Carmel tops the list of 51 students on the new honor roll just released by Monterey Peninsula College. Jane, who is in her sophomore year, received a perfect 3.00 or straight "A" average in grades for the first semester.

Other students from Carmel who made the honor roll are James Clark (who was second on the list with a grade average of 2.62), Barbara Fox, Edith Rigdon, Leo Woods, Joseph Beard, Ralph Westover, Carole Byers, Allen Kollmann and Jane Lowery.

Junketing in the South

Two pairs of Carmelites are currently junketing in the south. Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Donald Wilson of Hatton Fields were recently spotted in New Orleans, and presumably may stay around for the Mardi Gras festivities. Another Carmel twosome, Mrs. J. F. Brown and Mrs. Malcolm R. Cox, Jr., were recent visitors at the Little White House in Warm Springs, Georgia.

Stamp Club Meeting Monday

L. S. Stallings of Carmel, who makes his business in stamps, will address the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club on The Beginnings of Stamp Collecting at their meeting Monday night at 8:00 o'clock in the Carmel High School. Refreshments will be provided by Abbott Silva and Col. William Graham.

HI CHATTER

By Susan Nutter

The big thing this week was the annual ski trip. The Ski Club's main project during the year is this fantasy in snow in which approximately 80 students, faculty members, and parents participate. President Sydney Tice, Vice-President Don Martin, Secretary Judy Oliver, Transportation Manager Pat Ricketts, Mr. Stuart Mitchell, Mr. Lloyd Miller, Mr. Richard Hagadorn and Mr. Howard Burns have had their hands full in planning this trek to Badger Pass, Yosemite. The ski enthusiasts started out in the cold darkness at 4:00 o'clock yesterday morning. The snow flurry will be over on Sunday unless we are fortunate enough to be snowed in, and we hope that no schussboomer or inexperienced snow bunny will have broken his leg on the excursion.

The senior play Clarence is beginning to shape up, and should be ready by March 12. As a sneak preview, we found that the costumes are out of this world. You'll get a giggle or two as Allen Knight as Bobby and Peggy Weaver as Cora, have their "disagreements".

Next Friday William L. Wheaten, dean of admissions of Pomona College will visit Carmel High School to confer with students interested in attending Pomona. In making his rounds he will also visit Del Monte School for Boys in order to explain the curriculum and activities of the college.

The former Sally Ann Menefee and her flower girl, Judy Skov, pose before the altar of St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, following her marriage to Robert Alan Mullinx. The newlyweds, both Carmel High School graduates, recently returned from their wedding trip in Southern California, are established in their new home in Carmel Woods. Bob, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mullinx, is in business with his uncle, Robert Waldo Hicks, while Sally, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Ghirardelli Menefee, is continuing her work at the Golden Bough Playhouse.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

The Time Has Come to put out the unwelcome mat for garden pests. A good spraying now will do more than a dozen sprays later in the year. Of course there is one pest that politeness prevents us going after with the deadly spray . . . our neighbor's dogs. (Sing the tune "I'm always chasing rainbows" . . . I am always chasing my neighbor's dogs.)

The education of a gardener should be the ability to recognize the different insects. Garden vermin are seldom accommodating. They make it as hard for the gardener as possible, since almost all insects dine up-side-down on the under side of the leaf. If you watch closely you can detect White Fly. As water hits the branches of the plant, what appears to be a shower of wood ashes takes to the air. Give 'em the gun. A fine spray of cold water will finish the adult white fly, but not the babies that are protected with some sort of hardy covering. The experts tell us the time to go after the white fly is in the early dawn . . . (that's why they are experts!) I find the white fly most accommodating, for whenever I take my hose in hand he hops around, filling the air with tiny grey flakes like ashes. You can also detect white fly by just shaking branches. If a shower of tiny white specks take to the air, you better get busy. The water cure once every few days will work, but nicotine spray is sure.

The insect thrip is something else again. In hunting thrip you will need a Sherlock Holmes checkered cap, a magnifying glass and the ever-present Doctor Watson. Holmes selects a sheet of white paper; he selects a small branch tip.

"Now you see, Watson old chap, you shake this bit of branch over this white paper." Watson gets excited as he bends over the paper. He says, "By jove, Holmes, bits of black pepper are falling on that paper! How did pepper get on that plant?"

"Not pepper Watson, those black spots are alive."

Watson bends closer and remonstrates. "But Holmes, those black spots are immobile. They are not alive. I say they are black, pepper."

With infinite patience Holmes replies, "Ha, Ha, my dear chap, that pepper of yours is merely playing possum. Here, take my glass and see for yourself." Watson grabs magnifying glass, screws his monocle into his eye and gasps, "By jove, Holmes you are right! Those things are alive! They are rushing in all directions at once!" Watson wipes his brow with immaculate folded handkerchief, "What are they?"

Holmes yawns and pushes back the checkered cap to the back of his head. Deliberately, and for the twentieth time in the last few minutes he lights his pipe.

"Elementary, my dear Watson, elementary. You see before you a profound scientific discovery. You see before you the menace to all gardens. In short, my dear fellow, you are gazing upon the scoundrel THRIP!"

Stunned, Doctor Watson takes a step backward, muttering, "By jove, Holmes . . . by jove!"

To The Editor:

A letter from a Pine Cone reader in Los Angeles, says: "Although I have never been to Norway, Astrid Sisson's columns in the Pine Cone were so outstanding and so descriptive, I was actually with her on the trip. My thoughts—a person who takes a trip to a place so far away as Norway and yet takes time out to write about the trip so that others may enjoy it, is indeed, a very nice person. My sincere best wishes to her."

Congressional District Co-Chairman Reports On First Convention Of California Democratic Council

By CONSTANCE LOW

(Co-chairman of the 13th Congressional District for the Democratic Party)

The first meeting of the California Democratic Council took place last weekend at Fresno. The idea of forming the Council was conceived a year ago at Asilomar, where for the first time, Democratic clubs got together with their State officials, and Central Committee members. After two follow-up policy meetings, the Democratic Council was born last November. The primary purpose of the Council was to create a method of endorsing candidates for the Primary Election so that a well-integrated slate, selected by popular representation, could be offered for the consideration of the voter. No candidate is bound to abide by the voice of the Council, but may file for election if he so wishes. Those eligible to vote were representatives of clubs, in proportion to their membership, County and State Central Committee members, Congressional District Chairmen and officials of the State Executive Committee. This endorsement policy was deemed necessary because cross-filing has so defeated the purpose of the direct primary.

The permanent chairman of the convention was Alan Cranston, known to many people on the Monterey Peninsula. As most of you now know, Richard Graves was endorsed for Governor. I was present at a small gathering at which Mr. Graves submitted to a ceaseless round of questions and I was deeply impressed by his knowledge of our state's problems, such as schools, relief, housing, unemployment, roads, etc. The man endorsed for Lieutenant Governor is Edward Roybal, a young man of Mexican ancestry. He is a member of the Los Angeles City Council and has an excellent record. His selection was very popular. Edmund (Pat) Brown was unanimously chosen for Attorney General. Congressman Sam Yorty of Los Angeles was chosen for Senator. He has been a good Congressman and should be a good Senator. Other endorsements were George Collins, Controller; George Johnson, Treasurer; and Dan Rayburn, Secretary of State.

Monterey Peninsula was represented by myself, Congressional Co-Chairman Fred Farr, State and County Central Committee, Mrs. Virginia Mitchell and Mrs. William Arley Smith; Carmel Women's Democratic Club, Mrs. Thomas Oberbeck, and Mrs. Richie Lovejoy and Ernest Barbour, Monterey Peninsula Democratic Club. There were also delegates from Salinas and King City.

The spirit of the convention was one of vigor and enthusiasm. Naturally, there were disappointed candidates and some of their followers were disgruntled, but this situation is unavoidable. We found that the endorsements were arrived at in a democratic manner. A policy that encourages the participation of the voter in choosing his candidates is a big step towards clean and progressive politics, and could be achieved by the direct primary, were it not for the confusion of cross-filing.

Time For Kids, Adults To Build Their Kites

(Continued from Page One) playfield, at 1:00 to 1:15 o'clock. There they form a parade that goes past Mr. White's former residence and through the city and up to the football field of the high school. There the high fliers try their skill. The 200-foot contest is held. The other kites are judged in their classes, the adult kites are judged and the prizes are awarded.

Kites are flown in the Orient by people of all ages. There is pleasure in designing kites, in making kites as well as in flying them. Sunset School shop will be open for kite-making after school Tuesdays and Wednesdays from now until after the festival. Adults are welcome.

WILD LIFE IN FILMS

Another of the popular Audubon Screen Tours is promised for Friday night, February 19, in Carmel at the Sunset Auditorium.

Robert C. Hermes, of Buffalo, showed some remarkable colored motion pictures of gannets last year, as one of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society's Screen Tour series. "Once Upon An Island" is the title of next Friday night's portrayal of life with the eider ducks, Arctic and Caspian terns, murres, puffins, whirligig beetles, seals and whales.

Audubon Society has made the filming of wild life so popular, the Disney film organization has moved right into it. Some of the finest of Disney pictures include the results of Audubon camera artists. They are, of course, elaborated and dramatized more for showing in the commercial picture houses. Popular audiences enjoy the apparently comical antics of birds and animals as they are made to appear with musical accompaniment — although the wild life performers are entirely innocent of any pretence at clowning.

Nature's way is to be natural, in other words, as birds, beasts, insects, fish, tree and plants, to be themselves. They play, of course, love, mate, rear families—and in so doing, they reflect the life urge without fooling. Many people prefer to see wild life so depicted, truly, without caricature. Audubon Screen Tour pictures are so made.

McPHILLIPS HOTEL SALE FALLS THROUGH

The prospective sale of the McPhillips Hotel, owned by Ida McPhillips, to Calvin C. Ford has failed to materialize, it was learned this week. The hotel, located on the corner of San Carlos and Fifth, along with a retail paint store at the same address, will continue to operate under the present owner. The proposed remodeling of the hotel planned by its would-be purchaser has also been shelved.

Alan Pattee, Monterey rancher, today announced his candidacy for assemblyman from the 34th District. This district has been represented by Jim Silliman who is Speaker of the House. Silliman has announced his intention to run for Lieutenant Governor.

Mr. Pattee was born in Riverside County, California. He is 40 years old, married and has two children. He is a graduate of Harvard College with Bachelor of Science degree. Has spent his entire life in ranching; his grandfather was a founder of the citrus business in Southern California and the family have been ranching in California for three generations. He came to Monterey County in 1939 and entered the cattle and dairy business. He is a member of the Monterey County Cattlemen's Association, the Dairy Market Milk Producers Association, and the Farm Bureau.

Mr. Pattee is also a member of the Salinas Rotary Club and Salinas Lodge No. 614 B. P. O. Elks. He has twice been a member of the Monterey County Grand Jury, and served as chairman of the Law Enforcement Committee. He is a former chairman of the Monterey County Tax Council and is a regional director of the Boy Scouts, a member of the Board of 7th District Agricultural Fair and the California Rodeo Association.

Mr. Pattee was chairman of the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign in Monterey County and was a delegate on the Warren delegation in 1950 at the National Republican Convention in Chicago. He is chairman of the Monterey County Republican Central Committee and chairman of the California State County Chairman's Association.

Mr. Pattee states:

"I feel that local, county and state offices are more of a non-partisan nature than are national ones, and I promise to do a sincere and intelligent job for the entire community on that basis if elected."

Monterey Bond Election Feb. 23 For New Schools

A citizens committee this week was conducting an intensive Monterey school bond election campaign seeking a $2,892,000 school construction program, at a special election February 23.

According to Dr. Arnold Manor, board chairman, Monterey City School District and Monterey Union High School District, the program is for minimum building requirements essential for growth in the elementary and high school districts.

"At the present time," Glen T. Goodwill, Monterey school superintendent, said, "758 children are in 27 half-day sessions and there will be many more next year unless increased class rooms are built."

"Children in 4th, 5th and 6th grades," Goodwill stated, "lose 40 days or eight weeks out of a 177-day school year. Children in the lower grades lose less time but it is more difficult for these little ones to learn under half-day sessions."

Sleeping Beauty Ballet Reaches Tops In Local Dance Production

By RUTH FORD

It is a pleasant assignment to write of last weekend's production of the Tchaikovsky ballet, The Sleeping Beauty, by the Carmel Ballet Academy. In my opinion it was the best children's and young people's dance program given on Monterey Peninsula in the three decades I have lived here.

With some sixty young dancers involved, from tiny tots to advanced teenagers, it does not seem desirable, even if it were practicable, to list the outstanding solo performances. One girl, however, should be specially mentioned, for she is definitely ready for professional engagement — Pamela Beales, whose steady progress during the last few years affords unmistakable evidence of the quality of training she has received at the Ballet Academy.

In addition to possessing the happy faculty of drawing out of her pupils that elusive individual thing called "style", Joanne Nix has imparted even to the youngest child the feeling for precision so characteristic of the Sadler's Wells school where she herself trained. Further, a sound instinct for showmanship enables her to pull together the loose ends of an elaborate production, giving it pace and unflagging audience interest. One feels she couldn't produce an inferior show.

It is the particular business of ballet to transport us to a sort of never-never world, employing material means to create something quite immaterial and unreal, with an elusive dream quality which words cannot describe. It is something of a miracle that Joanne Nix could bring this about with several score of forthright modern youngsters, taken out of everyday life for only a few hours each week.

A formal ballet is not merely a dance performance — it is a delicate fusion and balance of dance movement, dramatic story, music, costume, setting and light. In The Sleeping Beauty, the recorded numbers of Tchaikovsky's beautiful music were played at proper volume, amplifiers and speakers being supplied and operated by James Meagher; the costumes designed by Mesdames Wager and Gamble were exceptionally tasteful and lovely; and the exquisitely modulated stage lighting may be credited to none other than Ruth St. Denis, with whom the theatre's director, Edward Kuster, studied stagecraft many years before he came to Carmel and created in succession the three Golden Bough theatres with which he has been identified. His thirty years' experience in handling switches and dimmers at ballets and dance recitals obviously paid off in this instance. Assisting in the lighting were Colin Kuster, Dolph Tewes and Jack Hilgers.

The wide stage and rich black drapery "cyc" of the new Golden Bough, brilliant phoenix that has arisen from the ashes of its two predecessors, provided an ideal setting for the ballet.

It is said to be the mark of a good stage director, whether of drama or dance, that he or she never demands of a performer more than the latter can give with ease and confidence. It is here that Joanne Nix has once more demonstrated her talent and intelligence both as teacher and choreographer. Each traditional solo number in The Sleeping Beauty was adroitly, almost imperceptibly, modified so as to bring it well within the powers of the dancer, whether an advanced pupil or one not so far along. The result was that the whole flowed smoothly, without strain or visible effort.

The two "guests", the only masculine element in the cast, deserve individual mention. Cole Weston, as the horrific Wicked Witch, gave an excellent bit of evil-doing pantomime; Fort Ord's Matthew King, as the Prince who ends the slumbers of Sleeping Beauty, showed the results of fine ballet schooling applied to a virile and athletic

Dorothy Eustis Pleases Audience At Club Concert

By Edward C. Hopkins

It was an entertaining program that pianist Dorothy Eustis presented Wednesday evening and one that would challenge the virtuosity of any public performer in length, variety of content, and the demands of mood and spirit that day within the music itself. The task was a marathon for endurance.

Musical Art Club members and friends comfortably filled the Carmel Woman's Club, but the concert would not have been out of place in Sunset Auditorium itself, and there is hope that Miss Eustis may return at some future date that we may hear her to greater advantage.

The suggestion of organ tones and registration in the Bach-Siloti Prelude and Fugue was particularly successful even though the piano was but a half size model. Beethoven and Brahms were treated with great spirit and deep sentiment, all contrasts and cross-rhythms being carefully defined and highly colored in an effective and unusual rendition. Chopin Etudes—three of them—closed the first half of the program.

Debussy suffered somewhat from the quality of the piano tone, though full understanding of the music itself was plainly evident in all three numbers. Two short pieces by Poulenc and a rondo on children's songs by an Argentinian composer were welcome novelties. The program closed with a Liszt Waltz and the too well-known Second Rhapsody—played magnificently.

A charmingly informal manner and conversational interludes were effective in creating a true "music-club" atmosphere, and the reception that followed launched a new year for the Musical Art Club that is full of promise.

Cozy Harbaugh

Mrs. Cozy Winifred Harbaugh, 69, died Monday in a local hospital following a brief illness.

Born May 22, 1884 in Mt. Victory, Illinois, she was the wife of the late Earl Harbaugh. A year ago she moved from New York to Carmel, making her home here with her son, Kenneth Harbaugh.

In addition to her son, she leaves two brothers, Carl Beebe of Hartford City, Indiana, and Howard Beebe of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Funeral services were held yesterday morning at the Wee Kirk of the Heather, Forest Lawn Memorial Park, in Los Angeles, with the Paul Mortuary in charge of local arrangements.

Winnifred Hubbell

Mrs. Winnifred A. Hubbell died February 4 at her home on San Antonio and Ninth streets where she had lived for the past year.

A retired schoolteacher, Mrs. Hubbell and her husband, Garner E. Hubbell, came to Carmel from Elsah, Illinois. She was born January 27 in Muskegon, Michigan.

In addition to her husband, she leaves two sisters, Miss Louise Andrews and Mrs. S. B. Oakes, both of Carmel, and a brother, George A. Andrews of Elsah, Illinois.

Private funeral services were held last Friday at the Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium, with inurnment at El Carmelo Cemetery. Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

ANYONE SEEN THE GOODWILL'S CLIPBOARD?

Anyone seen a clipboard with a long list of Carmel addresses attached?

If so, Goodwill Industries in Monterey would greatly appreciate having it back. The list contains the names and addresses of all the Carmelites who had requested Goodwill pick-up service this week. Without the list, the Goodwill truck doesn't know where to go, and local residents who phoned for pick-up are wondering why their goods haven't been collected.

The clipboard was lost somewhere in Carmel on Tuesday, during the Goodwill truck's weekly visit here. If anyone knows the whereabouts of the board and the list, they are asked to call the Goodwill at 5-7961. And Carmelites who had their names on the missing pickup list for this week are asked to call in their names again, and they'll be taken care of next week.

Son for the Drums

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Elmer Drum of Monterey Peninsula Country Club yesterday celebrated the third birthday of their new son, Jeffry Lynn Drum — third week, that is, since small Jeff made his appearance January 28 at Peninsula Community Hospital.

Boy Scouts Observe 44th Birthday

44th ANNIVERSARY 1954

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Official Boy Scout Week Poster

The 44th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be observed during Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7 to 13, by more than 3,300,000 boys and adult leaders. Since 1910 more than 21,000,000 boys and leaders have been members.

Boy Scout Week will highlight the "Forward on Liberty's Team" theme which seeks to produce a greater functioning manpower and provide a higher quality program for an ever-increasing membership.

In countless communities, Scouts, their parents, local institutions and public officials will pay tribute to the leaders of 89,000 Units for the contribution they are making to the boyhood of America.
